If you are ever traveling down the exit ramp from eastbound I-94 to southbound I-275, and your rearview mirror suddenly fills up with a whole-lota Colbra Mustang, don't be alarmed! It's probably Dr. Audrey Zavodsky keeping her racing skills razor sharp!

New Boston's Dr. Zavodsky uses these skills in the SCCA (Sports Car Club of America) Spec Racer Ford division. These tube-framed, 1,640-pound open-cockpit rockets have a three-piece fiberglass body, sue a Roush Industries prepared 1.9-liter fuel-injected Ford engine coupled to a five-speed transmission. This is the recipe for a 135-mph, taking-corners-at-90 kind of ride. She competes on road courses such as Mid-Ohio, Indianapolis Raceway Park, Waterford, Gratton, and Gingerman. Her talents have also taken her as far as Texas World Speedway to compete on a national level.

What possesses an extremely intelligent lady to strap herself into a 105-horsepower missile? It all started with a trip to Bob Bondurant's Driving School in Phoenix, Arizona, a gift from her husband Rich after completing her doctorate. This school teaches driving skills such as severe weather driving, accident avoidance, and overall vehicle control. Her training consisted of five hours of driving practice and three hours in the classroom. This defined a new challenge for her, a challenge not only to become a race car driver, but to become the best race car driver in a highly competitive racing series.

Becoming the accomplished driver that she is wasn't easy, and it didn't happen overnight.

"I kept thinking the car was going to roll over going through the turns!" she admits with a laugh, "I couldn't believe the speed I was supposed to maintain throughout the turns. It seemed impossible to go as fast as the others." Two-footed braking presented a challenge as well, until she Township Manager On The Horizon? _____

In a surprise move, the township board has agreed to have the township attorney draft an ordinance for a first reading creating the position of township manager. The move came as a surprise at the May 13th meeting because the item was not on the agenda to discuss much less take action on.

Mr. R. P. Lilly rose from the audience during public comments and recommended that the board hire a township manager as proposed by the appointed committee to study the concept.

Instead of taking the matter on advisement or perhaps scheduling the matter to be placed on the agenda, several board members seized the opportunity to support the creation of the manager position.

Trustee McKinney spoke first and at length, about the need to have a township manager and suggested an advisory ballot to be placed before the people for the August primary or the November general election ballot. He added that in support of a township manager, he wanted the supervisor to become a part-time position. He suggested it would assist in providing 50-60 percent of the township manager's salary. He admitted that changing the status of the supervisor from full-time to part-time could not occur until the year 2000 but did not seem to be concerned about the overlapping of jobs.

Trustee Glaab stated in strong terms and said "for the record" that he felt the board should make the decision and that it was his preference. Trustee Glaab served on the committee to study the position and has expressed - on several occasions - that he favored a township manager. However, this was the first time that he discussed the ordinance route as opposed to the advisory ballot route.

The board does have the power to create the position by ordinance. This process requires the drafting of an ordinance and two readings before it is approved. However, this process avoids the direct voice of the citizens because it avoids placing the question on the ballot for voter opinion.

Trustee McKinney seemed to be encouraged when Supervisor Glaab joined his brother in speaking in favor of the manager's position and a part-time supervisor. Trustee McKinney decided to push for an ordinance rather than an advisory election as he first suggested.

A motion was made to instruct the township attorney to draft an ordinance in preparation for its first reading. In opposition to this move, Trustee Adkins spoke in favor of placing the matter on the ballot and seemed uncomfortable with the speed and unanticipated direction the matter was moving. Trustee Adkins was joined by Treasurer Adkins in opposition to the motion but it passed by voice vote.

So, it appears the board is heading in the direction of creating an ordinance to create a Letter to the Editor

Voters of Huron Township: As some of you may be aware, recall petitions have been circulated against five members of the Huron Township Board. They are in the process of being certified now. Since the petitions were filed, the Ordinance Officer has been at my home accusing us of having unlicensed vehicles on our property. Not true! But it looks like there's one in his backyard? Is this harassment?

Several of us went to the Township Board meeting on Wednesday, May 13th and noticed that there were no TV cameras in use, even the several of the operators were also in the audience. The Board stated that there are no volunteers to operate the system all of a sudden. The township receives a 1% fee from your cable bill each month to provide local coverage, etc. what did they do with that money? They bought equipment but they won't use it!

There's a major renovation going on at the township hall, have you heard it discussed at a board meeting? They just do what they want and waste your money. They installed a $20,000 telephone system in that old building and now they're remodeling it again. They should go to the voters and ask for a millage to build a new municipal complex instead of wasting money on that old, outgrown building with out parking area.

It's time for all of us to start watching this bunch! They don't want to be seen on cablevision, so no one will know what kind of tricks they're playing! They are not trustworthy!

They meet on the 2nd and 4th Wednesdays of each month at the Krzyske Community Center at 7:30 P.M. Show them that you care what they are doing, attend their meetings!

Rebecca Alfano,
Chairwoman

Citizens to Recall the Big 5
Editor's note: Contacted chairperson of Public Access Committee. They were short operators due to the flu. The Township Board does not dictate to the Public Access Committee what is or is not to be taped. The Public Access Committee is made up of hard-working, dedicated volunteers.

Attended workshop meeting for the purchase of the phone system. The phone system can be moved to a new location.

Letters to the Editor may be sent to: P.O. Box 472, New Boston, MI 48164, or faxed to: (313)753-4417.

Renovations to the township hall are costing less than $7,000 which was approved by the Board at the 12/18/97 meeting.

township manager's position with an eye to eventually make the supervisor's position a part-time position. Because of the process, there will be several opportunities for the public to voice their concerns about this fundamental change in Huron Township's government.

The public has several options. They may voice their concerns about the ordinance process and pressure the board to place it on the ballot. They may convince the board to drop the matter all together. They may circulate a petition to get the question on the ballot or they can remain silent and allow the board to proceed with an ordinance.

Huron River Riders

The Huron River Riders hosted their First Annual M.S. Benefit Ride Saturday, May 9. Approximately 50 horseback riders, and three horse-drawn vehicles met under sunny skies at the Oakwoods Metro Park staging area and at Huron

High School to start the ride to the Bulldog Bar & Grill in New Boston.

A wonderful buffet lunch was served to the hungry, happy horsemen courtesy of the Bulldog. The bar's owner, Jim Card, generously spent time making a corral for us to tie our horses in his back parking lot while we ate.

The group road back to the park where they had a drawing for donated door prizes.

The ride raised $1,760 in donations for the M.S. Society of Michigan thanks to those who rode and/or just donated.

We were very pleased to have officer Bob from the Huron Police Department provide an escort and help control traffic on overpasses and through intersections. It made for a safe fun-filled afternoon.

Thanks to all who participated to make this benefit ride a great success.

Participants in the Huron River Riders Muscular Dystrophy Benefit Ride enjoyed a sunny day while earning money for the charity. Participants raised over $1,700.

Movies In New Boston 1918 Style

This movie theater was in an old house located where the Gibbs store now stands. The house and lot were bought by John Swantek in July 1916 from Martha Adams, who inherited it from her grandfather David Adams. John Swantek conveyed ownership to his son Frank Swantek in July 1917. Frank and his wife

Bessie (Kastle) Swantek began showing movies there in 1918, shortly after they were married, and ran it for a couple of years until they bought a meat market across the street. At the time they were living in a couple of rooms in the back part of the house that housed the movie theater. This building was torn down in 1921 to build the present store and residence. The siding from the building was subsequently used on a chicken coop that was built just east of the present garage on the property.

Many residents saw their first movie in this theater. Silent movies were shown there. The two largest posters shown in this photo are for a western film Trail of Hate with Jack (John) Ford and Louise Granville, and a comedy called Little Bo-Peep. Both were two-reelers, probably made around April 1917, since that's when their trademarks were registered.

The projector Frank Swantek bought to use here cost a couple of hundred dollars, was electric (no cranking needed), and projected good, clear pictures. The movies were rented from Pathe for two or three dollars a day each and picked up at the train station in Romulus. After the show, Frank had to hurry to get them back to the train office in Romulus on time, so they could go on their way to the next town. If he didn't get the film case there in time, he would have to pay rental for another day. All in all, it wasn't worth it as a business. One night they made twelve dollars. Frank and Bessie also showed these movies in Belleville for a while.

Frank ran the projector and Bessie sold tickets. The theater had movie-style seats and an Eoleon player piano, which also could be played manually. Mildred Adams used to play and furnish the music. Frank's sister Clara also operated the player piano and sometimes took tickets. They didn't have many rolls, so they played the same music over and over.

There were a couple of shows a week, on weekends – Saturday and Sunday evenings and market days, when people were in town. Admission was five cents for children and ten cents for adults. It had a pot-bellied stove for heat. There reportedly was room for seating approximately 40-50 people, and it was usually full. It's unclear whether the open space was there when the house was bought, or whether Frank opened it up by taking out partitions.

It sometimes got rough in there. Some people used to throw big gumballs at the back of the heads of the bald farmers, and they would get angry and it often ended the show.

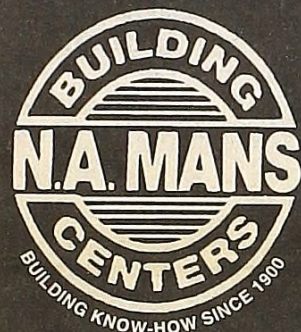

Previous to opening the theater, Frank Swantek had shown films in the summer months outdoors on the hillside behind the bank. He painted and erected a screen by the river and placed the projection equipment on the hillside, where the audience sat. These film showings were underwritten by the town improvement association as a way to bring people into town, and in fact did draw large crowds from all over. Films featured such stars as Charlie Chaplin, Pearl White and Harold Lloyd.

My Town – My Opinion

by DALE BANKS
Freelance Writer

There comes a time when you just have to sit back and rethink your life choices. And the decisions you made in it. Well the time has come for me to do just that. I moved to this town 13 years ago after I got married. I told myself that I would move out of what I then considered this one-horse town. And I often joked that this town had one stoplight and it was my turn to buy the nine-volt battery for it. But as things often do everything changes with time. People do, too. I changed too slowly at first but as things went along faster I changed with it. The people of this small town began to help this change to take place. It wasn't long before I stopped referring to New Boston as a one-horse town.

I started to see this town in a different light. This small town with its surrounding villages and many different people. And lately I found that it's not the town I thought it was all so many years ago. I found that I was starting to rely on those same people. People who made me feel as if I did belong here. People who have become more than just someone you pass on the road. Or walk by in the stores. They have become friends and some over the years have become family.

You see, I found out that I don't live in a small nowhere town, but in an extended sort of close family. Like the people who have lived next door for those 13 years. Who have become close friends. Like Jerry, the guy who cuts the meat at the local Country Pantry always with a smile and a kind word. Or when you walk into the local lumberyard in Waltz and you hear them call you by your name. Or you're driving down your own street just getting home from a bad day at work. Your neighbor is walking in his house, he looks and waves and you wave back thinking "I wonder if his day was as bad as mine." But yet he took the time to stop and wave and now you're not thinking how bad your day was. Or you're out with your wife and kids and you stop for a banana split to find out that they just ran out of bananas. I never thought twice, I went to the car and got one I just bought someplace else and went back in and asked if this would do.

You see, if this would have been 13 years ago, I would have gone home without it. But, as I type this I am eating my banana split and smiling. You see, people are what make a town what it is. It's not the town itself. We have some of the best people right here in this so-called small little town. Some of them live next door and when there is a fire or emergency they are the ones who show up in the middle of the night to help. We have lost a few souls along the way. That happens in every town I know that is true. But here in this town it just seems different somehow. In the face of family tragedies people you know are the friends you can count on to help you through those troubled times. You see, I think I have learned that it's not where you live that matters most. It's whom you choose to live near that does. And you want to know what I think the most important thing I have learned is? I like it here and I think I will stay right where I am. Is New Boston a small town? Yes, it is, and no it's not. But this is My town and that's My opinion.

Racing

watched herself on videotape and was able to see how steady the car was and how some of the other competitors negotiated the track. With plenty of practice and the desire to excel, these small "speed bumps" were eliminated. Given that the Spec Racer is a one-design, fixed specification car, the driver's skill makes all the difference. This is where Audrey's incredible self discipline takes her to the front of the pack. Every trip to the track is a learning experience, for both Audrey and her competitors. For Audrey the track becomes a classroom, as she tries to answer her own questions: How can I negotiate this turn just a little faster? How can I make up time in that part of the course? For her competitors, there is only one question to be answered: How can we beat her? A question they have been asking a lot!

The car is kept and prepared by KME in Columbia City, Indiana. It is then hauled with several others to the track and met with the respective owners. This helps the Zavodskys in several ways. It provides storage for the car, an extremely knowledgeable crew, and all the equipment needed to keep it performing to its maximum. Audrey credits preparation as her greatest tool to performing well. The week before each race she copiously pours over notes that she took from her last visit to that track, studying shift points, the quickest lines through the turns, and even going through the whole course in her mind. She gets plenty of rest, eats healthy, and exercises which is her normal, daily routine.

Staying maximum physical fitness is very important, since most races are between 17 and 25 laps, or one-half hour in length. Several divisions are on the track at the same time, as determined by that particular track, but only those in the same division compete against each other. This makes for close competition and also gives drivers of all abilities a chance to learn from others. Audrey humbly admits that often she is the teacher when it comes to getting through the turns smoothly.

When she's not setting the pace on the track she volunteers what little spare time she has talking to kids in an effort to get them interested in racing and cars, instead of drugs and violence. Besides being a full-time nurse, she also teaches piano and loves to garden. And if all this still leaves her some time, she's studying notes, tracks, and her competition.

With the help of her crew, (especially Tyrone, who works exceptionally hard on waxing the car and keeping it looking nice), Audrey had four top-five finishes, six top-ten finishes, and finished 13 out of 14 races in 1997. She cites one of her greatest achievements as passing the past champions, repeatedly, with ease! Perhaps her husband sums her up the best: "Of all the drivers, she's the best!"

But don't just take his unbiased opinion. Ask anyone driving a Spec Racer Ford. Most will agree.

The third annual Belleville Bridgewalk was held on Saturday, May 9th, with many people enjoying the great weather and the opportunity for a walk across beautiful Belleville Bridge.

Joining the parade of people was Judicial Candidate Brian A. Oakley and his "Green Brigade." His many supporters, all wearing Oakley's kelly green election colors, were out in force to walk the bridge and attend the Horizon Park Boardwalk dedication.

Oakley is seeking to replace retiring Judge Henry Zabor-owski at the 34th District Court, which services the communities of Belleville, Van Buren, Sumpter, Huron and Romulus. The election will be held on November 3, 1998. Anyone interested in assisting Oakley in his campaign may contact him at (734) 941-4296.
